A and L Electrical solutions

I have had a working relationship with Gareth and Dave of A&L Electrical Solutions Limited for over 20 years now.

They have always been knowledgeable, reliable and been able to support us with the many projects we've undertaken over the years. All of their employees have also been very polite, clean and tidy and able to work well unassisted when required.

These projects have included the design and changeover of production area lighting from the old low bay style fittings to new low energy LED fittings, the relocation of our production line including the relocation and installation of new and existing control panels, power supplies and inverters.

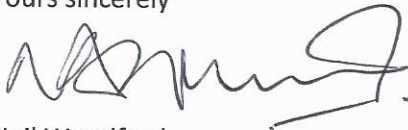

They have also completed regular maintenance including PAT testing, Electrical Installation Condition Reports, Emergency lighting testing plus completed all remedial works required following these tests. They have completed office refurbishments including power, lighting and data installations with minimal disruptions to our day to day working activities.

Their work is always of the highest order and completed on time.

They have always provided Health and safety documents including RAMS and their guys always follow them to the letter. They have never had any accidents or incidents while working on our site. Their prices are always competitive and their quotes are broken down and itemised so you know what you are getting for your money.

I have no issues recommending this company to any potential customers.

Yours sincerely
